

Indigenous.Link

Canada's fastest growing Indigenous career portal, Careers.Indigenous.Link is pleased to introduce a new approach to job searching for Indigenous Job Seekers of Canada. Careers.Indigenous.Link brings simplicity, value, and functionality to the world of Canadian online job boards.

Through our partnership with Indigenous.Links Diversity Recruitment Program, we post jobs for Canada's largest corporations and government departments. With our vertical job search engine technology, Indigenous Job Seekers can search thousands of Indigenous-specific jobs in just about every industry, city, province and postal code.

Careers.Indigenous.Link offers the hottest job listings from some of the nation's top employers, and we will continue to add services and enhance functionality ensuring a more effective job search. For example, during a search, job seekers have the ability to roll over any job listing and read a brief description of the position to determine if the job is exactly what they're searching for. This practical feature allows job seekers to only research jobs relevant to their search. By including elements like this, Careers.Indigenous.Link can help reduce the time it takes to find and apply for the best, available jobs.

The team behind Indigenous.Link is dedicated to connecting Indigenous Peoples of Canada with great jobs along with the most time and cost-effective, career-advancing resources. It is our mission to develop and maintain a website where people can go to work!

Description

Working collaboratively with the Northern and Indigenous Health (NIH) team, the Improvement Lead is responsible for a range of services that support CFHI's Northern and Indigenous Health portfolio. In response to the Truth and Reconciliation Commission Calls to Action, CFHI recognizes the need to support reconciliation efforts in all of its work, and to develop respectful relationships and partnerships with First Nations, Inuit, and Māori governments and organizations in order to guide our efforts to support cultural safety/humility in the healthcare system and enhance the capacity of the health system to meet the needs of First Nations, Inuit, and Māori. We are committed to creating a culturally safe work environment and support the training of all staff in areas of cultural competency, safety, and humility.

In all aspects of its work, the NIH team aims to work in a relational and respectful way with all external partners and CFHI staff, and, with First Nations, Inuit, and Māori partners and communities.

Your core responsibilities would include:

- Supporting internal truth and reconciliation and capacity development.
- Supporting partnership development and development of collaborative efforts towards improved cultural safety and humility in the healthcare system.
- Supporting the development, implementation, administration, coordination and evaluation of projects and processes related to the Canadian Northern and Remote Health Network and programming and knowledge sharing efforts led by the Northern and Indigenous Health portfolio.
- Coordinating and supporting the development and implementation of CFHI collaborations and similar activities within this portfolio.
- Coordinating and supporting consultations and environmental scanning to identify future collaborations/activities within this portfolio.
- Supporting the increase of Indigenous perspectives/content and benefit across all work of CFHI.

Experience

- Minimum three (3) years of progressive experience in a similar function.
- Experience working with First Nations, Inuit and/or Métis.
- Demonstrated ability working in health and healthcare, particularly healthcare improvement.
- Demonstrates commitment to cultural safety and humility.
- Ability to work in a relational, collaborative manner that is respectful of multiple perspectives.

Education Requirements

- Relevant Bachelor's degree (Master's level preferred) in healthcare improvement, health policy, public health, epidemiology, community health, Indigenous health and wellness, community development, or related discipline, or a combination of education and experience.

Essential Skills

You will be a great fit for this role if you have:

- Sound written communication skills, including experience writing research summaries and reports; ability to summarize, interpret and synthesize complex information.
- Highly developed interpersonal, facilitation, and oral communication skills including experience developing and maintaining strategic partnerships and networks of stakeholders.
- Excellent project management skills including the ability to plan and carry out broad assignments including planning and coordinating large and small meetings where complex subject matter is discussed, often involving collaborative efforts; ensuring their timely completion.
- Ability to plan and execute broad assignments including coordinating large collaborative meetings where complex subject matter is discussed – ensuring their effectiveness and timely completion.
