

Indigenous.Link

Canada's fastest growing Indigenous career portal, Careers.Indigenous.Link is pleased to introduce a new approach to job searching for Indigenous Job Seekers of Canada. Careers.Indigenous.Link brings simplicity, value, and functionality to the world of Canadian online job boards.

Through our partnership with Indigenous.Links Diversity Recruitment Program, we post jobs for Canada's largest corporations and government departments. With our vertical job search engine technology, Indigenous Job Seekers can search thousands of Indigenous-specific jobs in just about every industry, city, province and postal code.

Careers.Indigenous.Link offers the hottest job listings from some of the nation's top employers, and we will continue to add services and enhance functionality ensuring a more effective job search. For example, during a search, job seekers have the ability to roll over any job listing and read a brief description of the position to determine if the job is exactly what they're searching for. This practical feature allows job seekers to only research jobs relevant to their search. By including elements like this, Careers.Indigenous.Link can help reduce the time it takes to find and apply for the best, available jobs.

The team behind Indigenous.Link is dedicated to connecting Indigenous Peoples of Canada with great jobs along with the most time and cost-effective, career-advancing resources. It is our mission to develop and maintain a website where people can go to work!

Description

On its 42-acre campus in the south end of Halifax, Nova Scotia, Saint Mary's University (SMU) has evolved into a modern, secular, and metropolitan university with the strong traditions of accessibility and community engagement. SMU has a well-established commitment to cultural diversity and encourages and supports the development of a global perspective, developed on campus in the student body, the curriculum, and in teaching, research, and staff communities. Home to more than 7,000 students from over 115 countries who are enrolled during the academic year and summer sessions, across the Faculties of Arts, Science, Business, Education, and Graduate Studies & Research, and with over 50,000 alumni worldwide, SMU is the second-largest university in Nova Scotia. SMU offers undergraduate degrees, Masters, and PhD programs, in its areas of strengths in the humanities, business, social sciences, and the natural sciences. The university is ranked highly in Canada for research; receiving over $10M annually from external funding sources and is home to eight Canada Research Chairs.

The Faculty of Arts is a vibrant community with 100 full-time faculty, over 2,200 undergraduate students and 9 Graduate programs (including PhD in International Development Studies). The Faculty is home to 11 academic departments, the widest selection of humanities and social science disciplines in the Maritimes. The Faculty is highly interdisciplinary, has a strong research focus and a commitment to graduate students prepared with skills for a promising future. It is the only university in Atlantic Canada to offer a co-op program for all of the Arts majors, along with a plethora of service-learning and international opportunities. Researchers study a diverse range of topics, with a growing focus on community-engaged research and social justice.

It is within this context that Saint Mary's University invites applications and nominations for the position of Dean, Faculty of Arts commencing July 1, 2021, or soon after.

Reporting to the Vice-President, Academic and Research, the Dean of Arts is the University's lead academic and administrative officer, and a key member of the university's senior leadership team. The Dean of Arts promotes excellence in teaching and learning, the student experience, and research activities, all while overseeing the Faculty's financial operations, advancement activities, and community relations and partnerships. The Dean will advocate for and promote the interests of humanities and social sciences and foster a collegial, innovative, and inclusive environment in which world-class research, excellence in teaching and engaged scholarship flourish, and where students, faculty and staff thrive.

Candidates must be accomplished scholars with a record of research achievements, teaching excellence, and academic administrative experience. Candidates must hold a PhD in a related field and be appointable at the rank of full professor. As the ideal candidate, you will support the Faculty in both traditional disciplines and in new and interdisciplinary fields of study across the breadth of its programs and interdisciplinary programs. You will provide sound leadership, and work with faculty, staff and students to build a new strategic plan and bold vision aimed at implementing meaningful institutional change, prioritizing Arts and diverse peoples and knowledges. You have demonstrably advocated for diversity, equity, and inclusion and foster a safe, accessible, and inclusive environment in your institution. The Dean must be collaborative in style to build upon the interdisciplinary nature of the Faculty. The Faculty particularly encourages applications from candidates who are able to contribute to the Indigenization of the curriculum and the University. The appointment of the Dean is for a five-year renewable term commencing July 1, 2021, or shortly after. Consideration of candidates will begin immediately.

How to Apply
