

Indigenous.Link

Canada's fastest growing Indigenous career portal, Careers.Indigenous.Link is pleased to introduce a new approach to job searching for Indigenous Job Seekers of Canada. Careers.Indigenous.Link brings simplicity, value, and functionality to the world of Canadian online job boards.

Through our partnership with Indigenous.Links Diversity Recruitment Program, we post jobs for Canada's largest corporations and government departments. With our vertical job search engine technology, Indigenous Job Seekers can search thousands of Indigenous-specific jobs in just about every industry, city, province and postal code.

Careers.Indigenous.Link offers the hottest job listings from some of the nation's top employers, and we will continue to add services and enhance functionality ensuring a more effective job search. For example, during a search, job seekers have the ability to roll over any job listing and read a brief description of the position to determine if the job is exactly what they're searching for. This practical feature allows job seekers to only research jobs relevant to their search. By including elements like this, Careers.Indigenous.Link can help reduce the time it takes to find and apply for the best, available jobs.

The team behind Indigenous.Link is dedicated to connecting Indigenous Peoples of Canada with great jobs along with the most time and cost-effective, career-advancing resources. It is our mission to develop and maintain a website where people can go to work!

Description

Located within the traditional un-ceded territory of our Coast Salish and established in 1991, Vancouver Native Health Society (VNHS) is a non-profit charitable organization with over 700 members and volunteers. VNHS was created to address the lack of healthcare for urban Aboriginal people in Greater Vancouver, with a mission to improve and sustain the physical, mental, emotional and spiritual health of individuals. The philosophy of VNHS was founded on an Aboriginal understanding of the deep connection between individual well-being and community; good health in one is essential to good health in the other.

Reporting to the Board of Directors and working within the context of the Aboriginal centered organization, the Executive Director is responsible for planning and leading the service, programming and funding objectives required to achieve Vancouver Native Health Society's strategic objectives. The Executive Director has direct oversight of operations including staff leadership, financial viability, as well as the coordination of the day-to-day operations, programming and services. The Executive Director builds and maintains strong relationships with the Board, staff, health care providers, government agencies and the broader community with a commitment to ensuring a culturally safe and respectful healing environment.

Experience

The successful candidate will be a progressive leader with a demonstrated understanding of the delivery of multidisciplinary programs and services designed to meet the needs of clients struggling with complex social challenges and concurrent health issues. The ideal candidate will have strong organizational abilities with excellent interpersonal, financial, governance and strategic planning skills; as well as a commitment to community and public health.

Education Requirements

The candidate will have a bachelor's and/or master's degree (in a relevant program area including, but not limited to, healthcare, social work, non-profit leadership) with over five years of progressive leadership experience. Experience and understanding of working with Aboriginal people are required.

Other

VNHS is committed to employment equity and encourages applications from women, Aboriginal people, persons with disabilities and visible minorities. We strive to ensure the recruitment process unfolds in a fair, transparent, timely and open manner to include individuals previously underrepresented or discouraged from participating.
