

Indigenous.Link

Canada's fastest growing Indigenous career portal, Careers.Indigenous.Link is pleased to introduce a new approach to job searching for Indigenous Job Seekers of Canada. Careers.Indigenous.Link brings simplicity, value, and functionality to the world of Canadian online job boards.

Through our partnership with Indigenous.Link's Diversity Recruitment Program, we post jobs for Canada's largest corporations and government departments. With our vertical job search engine technology, Indigenous Job Seekers can search thousands of Indigenous-specific jobs in just about every industry, city, province and postal code.

Careers.Indigenous.Link offers the hottest job listings from some of the nation's top employers, and we will continue to add services and enhance functionality ensuring a more effective job search. For example, during a search, job seekers have the ability to roll over any job listing and read a brief description of the position to determine if the job is exactly what they're searching for. This practical feature allows job seekers to only research jobs relevant to their search. By including elements like this, Careers.Indigenous.Link can help reduce the time it takes to find and apply for the best, available jobs.

The team behind Indigenous.Link is dedicated to connecting Indigenous Peoples of Canada with great jobs along with the most time and cost-effective, career-advancing resources. It is our mission to develop and maintain a website where people can go to work!

Description

Academic Posting in the Faculty of Humanities School of the Arts Contractually Limited Appointment, Assistant Professor in Theatre and Film Studies

The School of the Arts at McMaster University invites applications for a one-year contractually limited appointment in Theatre and Film Studies at the rank of Assistant Professor to commence August 1, 2020. The successful candidate will have an MFA or PHD, or equivalent professional experience, with a demonstrated record of effective teaching in a program with a significant performance component at the university level. The successful candidate will have demonstrated knowledge of devised theatre, performance art, and video art histories and practices. Experience working as a dramaturge would also be an advantage. They will be comfortable teaching in both traditional classrooms and studio settings. The successful candidate will teach 21 units (seven one-term courses) over 3 terms, assigned in alignment with the candidate's skills and experience. Courses in the Fall and possibly the Winter term will all be taught remotely, so we are especially interested in candidates with demonstrated success teaching in virtual and/or online formats. The successful candidate will also contribute to the administrative work of the School including participation in the development of a new integrated arts curriculum. The School of the Arts is committed to interdisciplinarity and the integration of critical theory and arts practice at all levels of its programs. Evidence of thinking and practice that crosses traditional arts disciplines in the candidate's teaching and arts research (performance practice and/or academic publication) would be an advantage. Demonstrated strength in critical theories (indigenous studies, feminist studies, critical race studies, critical disability studies, gender studies, and/or queer studies) would be also be considered favourably. McMaster University is a research-intensive, teaching-centered institution in Hamilton, Ontario (70 km/43 miles from Toronto and 104 km/64 miles from Buffalo). Applicants should include a letter of interest, a curriculum vitae, a statement of teaching philosophy/practice, and an example of academic writing, and/or records of work in theatre and/or performance arts. Finalists may be asked for names and contact information for three referees. Applications and supporting documents should be directed to Claude Eilers, Acting Director for the School of the Arts, and must be submitted in one PDF file by applying online via the McMaster Academic Careers website (<http://www.workingatmcmaster.ca/careers/>) (Faculty Positions, Job Opening ID 32102). Inquiries may be directed to Rose Mannarino, Administrative Coordinator for the School of the Arts at mannari@mcmaster.ca. For further information on the School of the Arts, please visit: <http://sota.mcmaster.ca>. Review of applications will begin June 23, 2020 and continue until the position is filled. All qualified candidates are encouraged to apply. However, Canadian citizens and permanent residents will be given priority for these positions. To comply with the Government of Canada's reporting requirements, the University is obliged to gather information about applicants' status as either Permanent Residents of Canada or Canadian citizens. Applicants need not identify their country of origin or current citizenship; however, all applications must include one of the following statements: Yes, I am a citizen or permanent resident of Canada No, I am not a citizen or permanent resident of Canada
