

Indigenous.Link

Canada's fastest growing Indigenous career portal, Careers.Indigenous.Link is pleased to introduce a new approach to job searching for Indigenous Job Seekers of Canada. Careers.Indigenous.Link brings simplicity, value, and functionality to the world of Canadian online job boards.

Through our partnership with Indigenous.Link's Diversity Recruitment Program, we post jobs for Canada's largest corporations and government departments. With our vertical job search engine technology, Indigenous Job Seekers can search thousands of Indigenous-specific jobs in just about every industry, city, province and postal code.

Careers.Indigenous.Link offers the hottest job listings from some of the nation's top employers, and we will continue to add services and enhance functionality ensuring a more effective job search. For example, during a search, job seekers have the ability to roll over any job listing and read a brief description of the position to determine if the job is exactly what they're searching for. This practical feature allows job seekers to only research jobs relevant to their search. By including elements like this, Careers.Indigenous.Link can help reduce the time it takes to find and apply for the best, available jobs.

The team behind Indigenous.Link is dedicated to connecting Indigenous Peoples of Canada with great jobs along with the most time and cost-effective, career-advancing resources. It is our mission to develop and maintain a website where people can go to work!

Child and Youth Mental Health Clinician

A hands-on role helping children and youth in your community

Salary $65,884.61 - $75,147.62 annually

There are currently 5 full time permanent vacancies. This position is also posted as a Nurse7 here:

This Clinician position will be part of a new South Fraser Child and Youth Mental Health team for young children, birth to 12 years of age who have experienced trauma and are in the care of the Ministry. If you are interested in working with young children, their families and caregivers using infant mental and and/or early years models that help the child move from surviving to thriving, this is a great opportunity for you.

Many of the children and their families who will be served by this team will be from the Indigenous community. We are recruiting Indigenous Clinicians to work with Indigenous children, their families and communities. These Clinicians will be working within the Indigenous delegated agencies and the agencies that provide contracted services to the Indigenous community. If you are passionate about your culture and striving to provide service to the Indigenous community in a way that incorporates culture practices, the teachings, working with Elders and the community, consider this position. Be part of making a positive difference for the Indigenous families and their children that you will serve.

Qualifications for this role include:

• Masters in Social Work, Educational Counselling, Clinical Psychology or Child and Youth Care or comparable graduate degree at the Master's level, or equivalent.

• 3 years clinical experience working with children, birth to 12 years of age and their families, with responsibility for providing a wide range of community based mental health services.

• Experience in providing direct interventions around the trauma-based behaviours of children.

• Experience with integrated case management or Complex Care and Intervention (CCI).

• Preference will be given to applicants with experience and training in infant mental health.

• Preference may be given to applicants with experience in a trauma informed practice.

• Preference may be given to applicants with formal training and/or post-degree experience in trauma-focused interventions.

• Preference may be given to applicants who have Indigenous heritage (First Nations, Metis or Inuit).
