

Indigenous.Link

Canada's fastest growing Indigenous career portal, Careers.Indigenous.Link is pleased to introduce a new approach to job searching for Indigenous Job Seekers of Canada. Careers.Indigenous.Link brings simplicity, value, and functionality to the world of Canadian online job boards.

Through our partnership with Indigenous.Link's Diversity Recruitment Program, we post jobs for Canada's largest corporations and government departments. With our vertical job search engine technology, Indigenous Job Seekers can search thousands of Indigenous-specific jobs in just about every industry, city, province and postal code.

Careers.Indigenous.Link offers the hottest job listings from some of the nation's top employers, and we will continue to add services and enhance functionality ensuring a more effective job search. For example, during a search, job seekers have the ability to roll over any job listing and read a brief description of the position to determine if the job is exactly what they're searching for. This practical feature allows job seekers to only research jobs relevant to their search. By including elements like this, Careers.Indigenous.Link can help reduce the time it takes to find and apply for the best, available jobs.

The team behind Indigenous.Link is dedicated to connecting Indigenous Peoples of Canada with great jobs along with the most time and cost-effective, career-advancing resources. It is our mission to develop and maintain a website where people can go to work!

Description

About Toronto Metropolitan

At the intersection of mind and action, Toronto Metropolitan University is on a transformative path to become Canada's leading comprehensive innovation university. Integral to this path is the placement of equity, diversity and inclusion as fundamental to our institutional culture. Our current academic plan outlines each as core values and we work to embed them in all that we do. We welcome those who have demonstrated a commitment to upholding the values of equity, diversity, and inclusion and will assist us to expand our capacity for diversity in the broadest sense. In addition, to correct the conditions of disadvantage in employment in Canada, we encourage applications from members of groups that have been historically disadvantaged and marginalized, including First Nations, Metis and Inuit peoples, Indigenous peoples of North America, racialized persons, persons with disabilities, and those who identify as women and/or 2SLGBTQ+. Please note that all qualified candidates are encouraged to apply; however, applications from Canadians and permanent residents will be given priority. In April 2022, the university announced our new name of Toronto Metropolitan University, which will be implemented in a phased approach. Learn more about our next chapter.. The Opportunity

The Educational Developer works in a collaborative team environment to plan and implement professional development in teaching programs and supports for Faculty, Contract Lecturers and Teaching Assistants and Graduate Assistants (TA/GA). Following a reflective and evidence-based practice, the Educational Developer acts as an internal consultant for individuals, groups, and university administration, offering specific expertise in both TA/GA and Faculty development programs that enhance pedagogical practices for face-to-face, blended, and online delivery. The Educational Developer takes a leadership role in advocating for and creating an institutional environment supportive of teaching and learning excellence.

Qualifications Successful completion of a Masters's degree is required along with the following experience requirements: 3-5 years experience in developing and implementing teaching development programs for Teaching Assistants and Graduate Assistants (TA/GAs) and/or Faculty in a post-secondary setting. Experience teaching in higher education is an asset

Relevant course development skills developed through work experience in the university sector as an educator, and ideally, as an academic consultant or educational developer Demonstrated effectiveness in mediation and consulting with university academic leadership and faculty members to evaluate needs, advise actions, recommend activities and build consensus Extensive knowledge of theory and best practices in learning and teaching in higher education Expertise in the planning and implementation of educational development programming at a diverse institution. Course design, implementation, and assessment skills for face-to-face, online and blended learning Demonstrated ability to consult with stakeholders to assess program needs, conduct workshops, and be able to prepare comprehensive reports, proposals and presentation materials for specific target audiences. Excellent interpersonal, oral and written communication, conflict management and facilitation skills to be able to work with colleagues at different levels in the organization. Familiar with current frameworks for blended, hybrid and online learning design in higher education settings

Work Expectations This position is defined as in-person, with some opportunity for defined hybrid flexibility. The majority of the incumbent's time is spent in normal office conditions, as well as facilitating sessions and consultations in both classroom and virtual settings. As a Faculty-facing service unit, all staff at the Centre for Excellence in Learning and Teaching are expected to be available to work regularly on campus.
