

Indigenous.Link

Canada's fastest growing Indigenous career portal, Careers.Indigenous.Link is pleased to introduce a new approach to job searching for Indigenous Job Seekers of Canada. Careers.Indigenous.Link brings simplicity, value, and functionality to the world of Canadian online job boards.

Through our partnership with Indigenous.Link's Diversity Recruitment Program, we post jobs for Canada's largest corporations and government departments. With our vertical job search engine technology, Indigenous Job Seekers can search thousands of Indigenous-specific jobs in just about every industry, city, province and postal code.

Careers.Indigenous.Link offers the hottest job listings from some of the nation's top employers, and we will continue to add services and enhance functionality ensuring a more effective job search. For example, during a search, job seekers have the ability to roll over any job listing and read a brief description of the position to determine if the job is exactly what they're searching for. This practical feature allows job seekers to only research jobs relevant to their search. By including elements like this, Careers.Indigenous.Link can help reduce the time it takes to find and apply for the best, available jobs.

The team behind Indigenous.Link is dedicated to connecting Indigenous Peoples of Canada with great jobs along with the most time and cost-effective, career-advancing resources. It is our mission to develop and maintain a website where people can go to work!

Description

What it's like working at CBC/Radio-Canada

CBC NWT is looking for someone with a natural curiosity who loves to tell stories with compelling visuals, rich audio and great writing. The North is diverse and inclusive, a gold mine of interesting characters with stories that speak to the heart of our communities and cultures. It's a place of growth and change. We're seeing a rise in the rights and influence of Indigenous peoples, emergent immigrant communities and a major transition in the territorial economy. There are opportunities to learn, travel and build a career in the North. Join the team that serves the North as the people's broadcaster and leads the way in digital storytelling.

CBC is reinvesting in the regions by creating new positions across Canada as part of our digital strategy. Come join us on this exciting challenge to explore new ways of telling stories and diving deep into how media is created, transmitted and consumed. As a Reporter/Editor, you will be assigned to read the morning news. We are looking for an experienced newsreader who will also play an on-air role with the NWT morning show, The Traibreaker, contributing to its digital footprint. The successful candidate is an exceptional journalist, leader and thrives in the fast-paced, high-pressure world of breaking news. The ability to go live and "off script" at a moment's notice is highly valued.

Reporting to the Senior Producer of News, you'll play an editorial and leadership role in preparing and presenting the daily news. You will write and edit radio scripts in coordination with the assignment desk and the reporting team, and you'll be comfortable packaging stories filed from the field when needed. You will develop and maintain contact with a variety of sources as well as work in close co-operation with your program unit. You will have demonstrated success in your role by gathering and reporting information from various sources, conducting an analysis of the facts and information gathered, drawing conclusions or raising issues requiring further investigation, and contributing ideas, written scripts, and program content.

You will also, as required, critically edit material written by others, present information and/or analysis on air in a variety of formats, and perform other production or administrative tasks associated with the smooth functioning of the newsroom, program unit or station. Your work will be governed by CBC's journalistic and broadcasting policy and protocols.

In this role, you will ensure that all CBC journalistic standards are met and that our stories are fair, balanced, accurate, thoughtful, immediate and resonate with the communities we serve. You'll be innovative and will champion new story treatments and new workflows, and will help create a diverse range of content on our radio, television, digital and social platforms. You'll not be afraid to take creative risks, and you inspire others to do the same. As the industry shifts, local news and community storytelling is more important than ever. You will understand the diverse and changing population across the Northwest Territories and the importance of reflecting all our communities in our content. You live and promote an inclusive and respectful work culture. You have a solid understanding of the diverse culture of northern Canada.

Essential Skills

We are looking for a candidate with the following:

- A strong, demonstrated understanding of the NWT and pan-Northern political and cultural landscape.
- Excellent communication skills and interpersonal skills: must be a team player.
- Must be able to solve problems independently and in-group discussions (openness to new ideas and approaches).
- Initiative, flexibility, creativity and curiosity.
- Working knowledge of digital news including social media, - Search Engine Optimization (SEO), story analytics, storytelling styles.
- Demonstrated ability to use social media and other resources to build contacts and sources.
- Strong organizational skills; ability to handle a variety of functions quickly and efficiently and meet multiple deadlines and handle multiple story chases.
- Must be capable of original and creative thought in the production of news for online, radio, and social media skills.
- Experience in booking interview guests, developing lines of questioning, writing focused introductions and preparing and writing tape segments.
- Ability to interact with the public on the phone and in person.
- Ability to travel within Northern Canada on assignment.
- Ability to work flexible hours and overtime, is required.
- University degree or equivalent combination of education and experience preferred.
- Minimum of 3 years' relevant experience during which the candidate would gain exposure to journalism, computers, social media and the technology of radio or television broadcasting preferred.

Candidates may be subject to skills and knowledge testing.
