

Indigenous.Link

Canada's fastest growing Indigenous career portal, Careers.Indigenous.Link is pleased to introduce a new approach to job searching for Indigenous Job Seekers of Canada. Careers.Indigenous.Link brings simplicity, value, and functionality to the world of Canadian online job boards.

Through our partnership with Indigenous.Links Diversity Recruitment Program, we post jobs for Canada's largest corporations and government departments. With our vertical job search engine technology, Indigenous Job Seekers can search thousands of Indigenous-specific jobs in just about every industry, city, province and postal code.

Careers.Indigenous.Link offers the hottest job listings from some of the nation's top employers, and we will continue to add services and enhance functionality ensuring a more effective job search. For example, during a search, job seekers have the ability to roll over any job listing and read a brief description of the position to determine if the job is exactly what they're searching for. This practical feature allows job seekers to only research jobs relevant to their search. By including elements like this, Careers.Indigenous.Link can help reduce the time it takes to find and apply for the best, available jobs.

The team behind Indigenous.Link is dedicated to connecting Indigenous Peoples of Canada with great jobs along with the most time and cost-effective, career-advancing resources. It is our mission to develop and maintain a website where people can go to work!

Description

Flexibility Profile: Hybrid

Position Status: Continuous, Full-Time

Position Number: 00021314

Division: Distribution, Communications and Marketing

Department: Marketing

Union Category: PIPSC

Are you passionate about great storytelling, about exploring the topics that matter, about pushing the boundaries in new audiovisual experiences So are we. As Canada's public producer and distributor, the National Film Board has been telling the country's stories and pioneering breakthroughs in virtually every field of audiovisual content since 1939. But to do this, we need a team that truly reflects the richness and diversity of Canada. If you'd like to be a part of this team-and part of the NFB's incredible legacy-we'd love to hear from you.

In accordance with the NFB's Indigenous Action Plan, we are committed to transforming the face and institutional culture of the NFB; to playing a leadership role in the industry through the changes we are making; to entrenching representational equity for First Nations, Metis, Inuit and urban Indigenous creators; to adopting Indigenous-led protocols for working with Indigenous content and subjects; to making our collection of Indigenous works more accessible; to proactively connecting this work to Indigenous and non-Indigenous audiences; and to nurturing this collection for generations to come.

Under the leadership of J'net Ayayqwayaksheeth, the NFB's inaugural Director of Indigenous Relations and Community Engagement, the NFB is becoming a more culturally safe workplace, with a new monthly Indigenous Support Circle, mental health support, an Indigenous caucus to provide a safe space for Indigenous employees and collaborators, continuous professional learning in Indigenous cultural competency for all staff, and more inclusive human resources practices, to make a few.

This role supports the NFB's North West Studio, which has long been a vigorous champion of Indigenous filmmaking, producing landmark works by many of the most distinguished First Nations, Metis and Inuit artists in Canada. To properly serve and represent these communities, the Studio now has three Indigenous producers as part of the team. It is equally important that we bring Indigenous expertise and perspectives to the Marketing department to help serve the productions and creative teams working within this Studio.

In keeping with the commitments made in the NFB's Diversity, Equity and Inclusion Plan, this position is exclusively open to persons who self-identify as First Nations, Inuk or Metis.

The NFB is also committed to developing inclusive, barrier-free selection processes and work environments. Feel free to advise us of any accommodation needs.
